The hope of eradicating such disease, I V then, by licensing its cause, betokens the extreme of moral blindness, and contradicts all science. Dr. o Elizabeth Blackwell says: We may as well expect to cure typhoid fever whilst allowing sewer gas to permeate f Ku rn-U, , , . the house; or cholera, whilst bad drinking water is being c(-. ;3 taken, as try to cure venereal disease whilst its cause remains unchecked. A recent official plea for licensed prostitution in the Cantonments of India declares: The efforts to teach the soldiers habits of self-control have signally failed. We wish for a moment to consider the efforts that have been used in the past There lies before us a copy of the Report of the Army Health Association. It was printed at Meerut, India, in 1892. We have also the subsequent reports for several years. In speaking of the efforts put forth to teach self-control, much is made of the work of this Association (see Departmental Committee Report, 1897, PaSe l3), as a means that has been used. This report of the Army Health Association has printed on its cover such texts as, Keep thyself pure, V He that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption, etc. ; giving the impression that it is a religious document. In fact it is interspersed all through with Scripture quotations. The introduction is signed by a Major-General, and the body of...
