He took no comfort from the peaceful whisper of the breeze in the tall cedars. The stars of Cygnus, the great swan beckoned him on, but he had no knowledge of where the path he had set out on would lead, and this lay heavy on his heart. Ahead, he half saw the cloaked figure of Sir Ambrose mounted on the great Roan that was his pride and joy. The jingling of harness and the sound of muttered prayers confirmed that Dom Pharsea was close behind. How much further now, Ambrose the druid called out in his strong bass voice. I should know these woods, but they seem strange tonight as if I'd never been here! Were almost there, My Lord Jalgrod, the knight replied. The crescent moon gives little light and I thought to take best advantage of the darkness by avoiding the main path. This way will lead just as surely to the gnome, and well not be seen by inquisitive eyes. Ambroses confident words did little to lift Jalgrods mood....
